

WARNING

South London College has a clear commitment to ensure that all of our students have an acceptable level of English to enable them to succeed in their chosen courses.

We are concerned to find that in some cases, students have arrived in the UK with a level of English which is not the same as that shown on their English test certificates and scores.

We currently test all students arriving from non-English speaking countries at the College and compare the result of that test with the student's certificate from their country of origin.

If the two sets of results differ by more than 10% we will refuse to enrol the student on their main course and they will be obliged to do a six month English course in advance.

Please note that we will be interviewing and testing by video link, before issuing confirmation of acceptance letters, all candidates who have not provided satisfactory evidences of their English language competence.
